LAST NIGHT

Enroute with President Harding to Hutchinson, Kan., June 23.—President Harding came to Kansas today and planned to turn "dirt farmer."

Entering the very heart of the great fields, Mr. Harding and Governor Davis of Kansas, a real "dirt farmer" intended to go into the waving wheat fields that stretch for miles in every direction, fields of gold under a burning sun.

If the sunburn the president suffered in Kansas City yesterday is not too painful the president will put on overalls and start out to become a farm hand.

Mr. Harding thinks Kansas is the greatest wheat growing district there is. Although he was forced to rest yesterday afternoon because of sun-blistered lips, he was much better today, and hopes with Governor Davis to furnish the necessary technical knowledge to climb aboard a binder and start cutting the crop. The grain he cuts will be threshed at once and rushed to the flour mill tonight, and Mr. and Mrs. Harding will eat the biscuits made of this flour.

Having thus initiated the harvest season, President Harding will embark on the major part of his western trip—the speech to farmers of the middle west, southwest and far west. He will deliver his agricultural message at the fair grounds on the outskirts of Hutchinson, where it will be broadcasted by radio.

Senator Arthur Capper and Governor Davis will be hosts to the party. Hutchinson, a town of 20,000, is one of the nerve centers of the wheat producing section. It has grain elevators, flour mills, and one of the largest boards of trade in the middle west. Two speeches were on today's program—one informal talk this morning to school children and the other the agricultural speech at two o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Harding was given a five-minute ovation in Kansas City last night. When he arose to speak it was hard to disguise disappointment mentioning railroad reductions for agriculture. That is one of the phases of the transportation question that the farming west is greatly interested in, and Senator Capper said today the president made a mistake in not covering the points in some manner. Disappointment from this is likely to be reflected as he goes farther into the farming country, Capper and others believe.

In his speech to a large audience, the president outlined an administration railroad policy based on two points—mandatory consolidation of the country's lines into a few big systems, and enactment of a law to prohibit railroad strikes until the disputes have been submitted to arbitration.

In doing this he flew in the face of public opinion in this section of the country, since the middle west is reported strongly opposed to the consolidation plan. He stated in the speech that he had been "very much warned" not to make it in Kansas City.

Labor is bitterly opposed to the anti-strike suggestion which Mr. Harding made clear he is going to try to have put into the railroad law. He recalled his vote for that provision, and said he was sorry it had been stricken from the law, saying he hoped it still would be possible to incorporate it. In doing this he slashed at the Pennsylvania railroad for its refusal to accept and abide by the decision of the Railroad Labor Board. The president also emphasized the need for an inland waterway system of transportation.

Two Killed, One Hurt in Windstorm Near Mildred

It is foolish to propose the widening of channels and other waterway improvements, Mr. Harding said, unless these changes are made effective and a fair decision of returns assured.

THOUSANDS OF FARMERS
POUR IN TO SEE HARDING

Hutchinson, June 23.—Farmers from throughout the western Kansas wheat belt welcomed President Harding on his arrival here today.

Thousands of farmers poured into the city in all manner of vehicles from ancient flivvers to the latest model super sixes.

The president's party obtained some relief from the heat here. Although the sun was beating down hotly, a typical western Kansas breeze stirred the air.

The president was escorted from the station, where he was enthusiastically greeted, to Sylvan Park, where acres of school children waved flags in welcoming him.

President's Speech in Hutchinson

Hutchinson, Kas., June 23.—"Agriculture is through the worst of the depression and now can reasonably expect gradual improvement," declared President Harding today in one of the most important addresses of his tour speaking before a predominantly farm audience here in the great wheat belt of the country.

Launching forth into his heralded "Message to the Farmer," the president said "I am proud to be able to come to you today and tell you of what has been done, for agriculture suffering from the contractions of post war deflation."

The theme of Mr. Harding's address here, which was followed with the greatest attention and interest was a comprehensive recital of the steps taken by congress and his administration in Washington to relieve the burden of the farmer. He announced new agricultural measures to be presented to the next congress.

The president sketched how the entire social and economic fabric of the world was torn asunder by the world war, impressed upon his listeners that not alone the farm but all classes of society suffered and at the conclusion of his address painted a historical word picture of how agriculture has risen through the ages from serfdom to its present enlightened state.

"The losses to American agriculture are universally admitted and deplored," said Mr. Harding. "It is not an experience peculiar to American agriculture alone. Nor, was the readjustment following war's inflation a burden to agriculture alone. It came to the railroads, bankers, to manufacturers and to the mercantile world. The miracle is that we all escaped with so relatively little of disaster."

"Ever since the earlier processes of deflation which began after the world war we have been studying and talking about the rehabilitation and the better organization of our agricultural industries."

"And now," the president said, "we have been officially informed that owing to improved conditions the farm products of the country for 1922 are worth $2,000,000,000 more than they were in 1921. Clearly we are through the worst of the depression and can reasonably expect gradual improvement."

"When the present administration came into a responsibility agriculture was in the lowest ebb of depression. The immediate need was for measures to meet an emergency. There was urgent call to keep open and so far as possible enlarge our foreign markets and this was accomplished by prompt policy of placid, necessary credits at the disposal of those engaged in finding foreign markets for our foodstuffs by arresting and reversing the drastic deflation which had the seeming, under the former administration, purpose of being aimed especially at the destruction of agriculture's prosperity by recalling the War Finance Corporation from its state of suspended animation, and giving it a credit of $1,000,000,000 in government funds and recommissioning it to afford relief to the American farmer. DRY AGENTS BREAK
SEALS OF BALTIC
AND SEIZE LIQUORCUSTOMS OFFICIALS BOARD ENGLISH SHIP AT NEW YORK, MAKE FORMAL DEMAND"SURPLUS STOCK" ON BOARD
TAKEN AND BEER, WINE,
ETC., ARE REMOVED

(By United Press.)

New York, June 23.—The seals of the British government on the door of the liner Baltic's liquor storeroom were broken today and the contraband beverages found therein were seized by agents of the United States government.

A squad of prohibition agents and customs officials under Federal Prohibition Director Canfield of New York made the seizure.

Customs officials boarded the Baltic and made formal demand for the liquor, listed as "surplus stock". The captain ordered his chief steward, A. T. Hattrick, to show the agents to the liquor.

M. O'Connor of the customs officials broke the seals. Customs men then started the task of removing the bottles of beer, wine and liquors to the dock where Canfield and his men awaited them with motor trucks.

The liquor will be removed to the army base at Brooklyn pending disposition of the case by Washington. Customs officials were lead to the liquor, where the captain handed them a formal protest from the ship's owners. A copy of the protest will be dispatched to the British government. The protest stated that the liquor was designed for the use of passengers outside the three-mile limit on the voyage east.

Just as the customs men were starting to remove the liquor, John Walton, superintendent of the wharf, started to board the ship with a message which he said he had just received from the collector of customs ordering that the liquor remain on the ship pending further instructions. The customs men then locked the door of the liquor room and established a guard.

Meanwhile prohibition agents continued with the removal of liquor which had already been taken from the storeroom, stating that they had received no orders to leave liquor on the port of New York.

Robert M. Wayne, chief surveyor of the port of New York and Canfield announced that they had not received orders to halt removal of the stocks. However, they will await the arrival of medical officers before continuing with the case.

Canfield said there was a possibility that the medical examiners might declare the entire stock "medicinal" in which event the liquor would be released.

HOW MUCH LIQUOR IS MEDICINAL?

New York, June 23.—Removal of liquor from the White Star steamer Baltic began at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon in conformity with the ruling of Washington authorities that no liquor other than for medicinal purposes can be brought into American waters.

Eight cases of liquor were in the first batch taken from the hold. Federal Prohibition Director Canfield of New York and several of his agents took charge of the liquor as it reached the dock and placed it in motor trucks preparatory to removal to government warehouses, pending final action in the case. After 1,000 bottles of wine, beer and whiskey had been removed, T. W. Little, surveyor of the port of New York, issued orders that not another bottle of liquor still on the ship should be removed until arrival of E. H. Sprague, of the public health service.

Dr. Sprague, it is understood, is to determine whether the entire

NAT'L SUPERVISED
SALE OF LIQUOR BY
MANITOBA PROVINCE

(By United Press.)

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.—Manitoba province has voted to discard prohibition and adopt a plan for government supervised sales of liquor, returns from yesterday's referendum indicated today.

The issue voted on was government control as advocated by the Moderation league versus absolute prohibition.

With returns from rural districts incomplete, the prohibition forces were being lead by a vote of 31,233. Winnipeg gave the "wet" plan a decisive victory with a majority of 25,988. In the rural districts, counted on by the dries to defeat the sale of liquor, the vote was 29,017 wet and 23,752 dry, giving the Moderation league project a lead there of 5,265.

PROHIBITION DISCARDED
BY 35,000 MAJORITY

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.—Manitoba province has discarded prohibition after seven years of "bone dry" enforcement.

Returns from yesterday's election show that a plan for government sale of liquor throughout the province, including Winnipeg, was adopted by a majority estimated at 35,000.

The Winnipeg vote was wet, 46,359; dry, 20,371. Returns at 9:45 a. m. from the province as a whole were 81,628 wet, 49,358 dry.

The vote was declared sufficiently complete to eliminate any chance of a reversal. Government sale of liquor is expected to start as soon as the legislature can be summoned to confirm the referendum.

"PUSSYFOOT" STATEMENT,
MANITOBA NEVER WAS DRY

New York, June 23.—Calling for the Near East to dry up the Moslems, William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, America's most famous roving dry crusader, today waived comment on the wet vote in Manitoba. He remarked that Canada never was bone dry.

"Canada never had real prohibition," Johnson said. She barred the sale of liquor, but did not stop the manufacture of intoxicants. You can't have real prohibition until the manufacture of liquor is stopped."

DECISION REACHED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, June 23.—The British liners Baltic and Berengaria, which arrived in New York carrying liquor supplies to test the ruling of the United States supreme court, will be allowed to retain on board an ample supply of medicinal liquor, it was decided here today.

Acting Chief of Public Health Service James White and James A. Britt, counsel of the prohibition bureau, agreed that the British should be allowed, in accordance with British law, to keep five gallons of brandy or whiskey for each passenger.

Although it was decided that if the ships doctors feel that from experience they know that liquor will be below the margin of safety, will supply no longer available, more "medicinal liquor" may be allowed. In addition, ample supplies of champagne and white wine, popular remedies for seasickness, will be authorized for dispensation under ship doctors' directions.

The Treasury Department is now compiling laws of all foreign consuls on medicinal liquor supplies. Until this is completed, affidavits of consuls in American ports will be required to increase the proportion of H. liquor allowed on board.

The liquor will be removed to the army base at Brooklyn pending disposition of the case by Washington. Customs officials were lead to the liquor, where the captain handed them a formal protest from the ship's owners. A copy of the protest will be dispatched to the British government. The protest stated that the liquor was designed for the use of passengers outside the three-mile limit on the voyage east.

Just as the customs men were starting to remove the liquor, John Walton, superintendent of the wharf, started to board the ship with a message which he said he had just received from the collector of customs ordering that the liquor remain on the ship pending further instructions. The customs men then locked the door of the liquor room and established a guard.

Meanwhile prohibition agents continued with the removal of liquor which had already been taken from the storeroom, stating that they had received no orders to leave liquor on the port of New York.

Robert M. Wayne, chief surveyor of the port of New York and Canfield announced that they had not received orders to halt removal of the stocks. However, they will await the arrival of medical officers before continuing with the case.

Canfield said there was a possibility that the medical examiners might declare the entire stock "medicinal" in which event the liquor would be released.

HOW MUCH LIQUOR IS MEDICINAL?

New York, June 23.—Removal of liquor from the White Star steamer Baltic began at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon in conformity with the ruling of Washington authorities that no liquor other than for medicinal purposes can be brought into American waters.

Eight cases of liquor were in the first batch taken from the hold. Federal Prohibition Director Canfield of New York and several of his agents took charge of the liquor as it reached the dock and placed it in motor trucks preparatory to removal to government warehouses, pending final action in the case. After 1,604 bottles of wine, beer and whiskey had been removed, T. W. Little, surveyor of the port of New York, issued orders that not another bottle of liquor still on the ship should be removed until arrival of E. H. Sprague, of the public health service.

Dr. Sprague, it is understood, is to determine whether the entire

NAT'L SUPERVISED SALE OF LIQUOR BY MANITOBA PROVINCE

(By United Press)

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.—Manitoba province has voted to discard prohibition and adopt a plan for government supervised sales of liquor, returns from yesterday's referendum indicated today.

The issue voted on was government control as advocated by the Moderation league versus absolute prohibition.

With returns from rural districts incomplete, the prohibition forces were being lead by a vote of 31,233. Winnipeg gave the "wet" plan a decisive victory with a majority of 25,988. In the rural districts, counted on by the dries to defeat the sale of liquor, the vote was 29,017 wet and 23,752 dry, giving the Moderation league project a lead there of 5,265.

PROHIBITION DISCARDED BY 35,000 MAJORITY

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.—Manitoba province has discarded prohibition after seven years of "bone dry" enforcement.

Returns from yesterday's election show that a plan for government sale of liquor throughout the province, including Winnipeg, was adopted by a majority estimated at 35,000.

The Winnipeg vote was wet, 46,359; dry, 20,371. Returns at 9:45 a. m. from the province as a whole were 81,628 wet, 49,358 dry.

The vote was declared sufficiently complete to eliminate any chance of a reversal. Government sale of liquor is expected to start as soon as the legislature can be summoned to confirm the referendum.

"PUSSYFOOT" STATEMENT, MANITOBA NEVER WAS DRY

New York, June 23.—Calling for the Near East to dry up the Moslems, William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, America's most famous roving dry crusader, today waived comment on the wet vote in Manitoba. He remarked that Canada never was bone dry.

"Canada never had real prohibition," Johnson said. She barred the sale of liquor, but did not stop the manufacture of intoxicants. You can't have real prohibition until the manufacture of liquor is stopped."

Brussels, June 23.—King Albert of Belgium sustained a broken wrist and lesser injuries today when he was thrown from his horse at Lackson.

stock of liquor is to be classed as "medicinal," and therefore legal.

DECISION REACHED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, June 23.—The British liners Baltic and Berengaria, which arrived in New York carrying liquor supplies to test the ruling of the United States supreme court, will be allowed to retain on board an ample supply of medicinal liquor, it was decided here today.

Acting Chief of Public Health Service James White and James A. Britt, counsel of the prohibition bureau, agreed that the British should be allowed, in accordance with British law, to keep five gallons of brandy or whiskey for each passenger.

Although it was decided that if the ships doctors feel that from experience they know that liquor will be below the margin of safety, with a supply no longer available, more "medicinal liquor" may be allowed. In addition, ample supplies of champagne and white wine, popular remedies for seasickness, will be authorized for dispensation under ship doctors' directions.

The Treasury Department is now compiling laws of all foreign consuls on medicinal liquor supplies. Until this is completed, affidavits of consuls in American ports will be required to increase the proportion of liquor allowed on board.

MINNESOTA'S INTEREST IN CHILDREN

DURING the past few years there has been a number of indications of the unusual interest this state takes in its unfortunate children. The work of the Child Welfare Board in the state of Minnesota is considered favorably by other states that see in it a pattern that may well be followed by them. The training of rural workers by the University of Minnesota has been given favorable mention in a conference of the Child Welfare Board workers in the state of New York.

Another indication of the interest Minnesotans take in unfortunate children is found in the hospitals that are being provided by organizations and individuals, where crippled children may be treated in the ways prescribed by the best medical science.

William Henry Eustis was well advised in turning over $1,000,000 to the Minnesota Hospital and Home for Crippled Children, an institution made possible by his gift, which will be under the direction of the state university. Mr. Eustis was well-advised in turning over the direction of the hospital to the university because the medical department of the university is skilled in the handling of matters of this kind. His wisdom is demonstrated by the engagement of Dr. Clemens Pirquet of Vienna, one of the world's best known specialists in children's diseases, who will be a member of the faculty of the university.

There are two duties that rest upon society that appeal to the humanitarian instincts of our citizens; these are the care of the impecunious aged and the unfortunate children. But not always are those things done that ought to be done, and those who have not only the insight into the need, and a sense of obligation, but the will to go ahead and make provision for the needy are fulfilling one of the best tasks of organized society. Befriending the helpless is a noble work which the people of Minnesota are to their credit, more than the people of many other states, initiating and perfecting.

BRAINERD'S BOY SCOUTS

THE people of Brainerd will be ready to respond to an appeal made by leaders of the Boy Scout movement. They have watched boys from different sections of the city become alert and manly after a few months under the direction of their scout masters. The training has already proved its value by inculcating the duty of obedience and making an appeal to the honor of the scouts.

When the boys took up an offering recently for the Wahkon juvenile band, those responsible for the boys knew full well that every coin dropped into the hats would be brought to those who were waiting to receive the collection. The Boy Scout movement makes an appeal to a boy's honor, and when boys are placed upon their honor, after being instructed in what this means, there are few boys who will not be gentlemen.

The Rotary club of Brainerd has borne the burden of organizing this movement in Brainerd. The members of this organization have given of their time and money in making it a functioning movement. But if the work is to be extended and provision is to be made for engaging a trained Scout master to supervise the work, the people of this city must get behind the program by contributing to it.

Daniel Webster in addressing a jury, relative to a case that involved certain wheels, said, "Gentlemen, here are the wheels." The wheels were there to be seen, and what the Boy Scout training has done for the boys of Brainerd may be seen. The demonstration is before the eyes of the citizens of Brainerd, who will be ready to get behind the organization and guarantee that it will be extended under the direction of a thoroughly competent supervisor. Harold Andrews has proved his ability to train boys and much credit goes to him for the work that he has done in Brainerd.

THE ROTARY INTERNATIONAL

THE international convention of Rotary clubs, held at St. Louis during this week, will stimulate those who attend its sessions and will help to put the ideal of service before the people of the United States. The good that Rotary is doing in the world cannot be measured. Not only those who are members of the organization and gather around the table each week, to promote more friendly relations and encourage each other in unselfish service are influenced by its principles and philosophy, for the spirit of Rotary is spreading beyond its membership and is entering the lives of men throughout this and other countries.

The outstanding thing about this club lies in the fact that its philosophy makes an appeal to men generally and finds a ready response in their hearts. It is built on an ideal that is devoid of technicalities of creed and legalism. It asks for the application of the golden rule and affirms that "He profits most who serves best." These profits, however, are not to be measured in cash but in conscience. The satisfaction of service is the profit of serving.

The founder of the movement, speaking before the international convention this week, said, "Greatness in the future will depend not upon what one has been able to get, but rather on what one has been able and willing to give." When the principles of this organization are applied, and gradually they are being applied, there will be a reduction in the margin between the price paid the farmer for his produce and the price paid by the consumer for what the farmer raises. Coal, for which the miner gets a pittance, and for which the consumer pays an extortionate price will be bought for what it is worth, after operation costs, miners' wages and transportation rates, with a reasonable profit to those who handle it, have been made the basis for fixing the price.

What the Man of Galilee said, and what the pulpit has preached, the Rotary clubs of the world are attempting to practice. They brush aside technicalities and attempt to put into operation that truth which they believe holds the promise of better relations through better men. They ask that every man serve faithfully and well in his own place. They know that honest service brings its own reward.

THE "Mississippi Trot" and "Trisco" are among the new dances approved. This at least may be said for them, they have American names.

PRESIDENT HARDING IN HEART OF WHEAT FIELDS

wisdom of this action was demonstrated by results.

"Four hundred million dollars have been loaned by this institution, three-fourths of it to the farming and livestock interests. At the same time the emergency tariff measure was passed by which to secure the farmer's home market against the flood of competing articles from distant corners of the earth.

"Along with these measures prompt action was taken to put the Farm Loan Board back into business. Like the War Finance Corporation, it had been in a state of suspended activity for want of money to loan. It was given a credit of $50,000,000 and resumed loaning on farm property.

"A bill to facilitate cooperative marketing of farm products was passed. Legislation to prevent harmful gambling in agricultural futures was passed, held by the courts to be unconstitutional and quickly repassed with the defects removed.

"The act for the regulation of the meat packers was enacted. Important reductions of freight rates on agriculture products were effected. Certain restrictions upon the operation of the joint stock land banks, which had prevented them from doing their share in financing the farms were removed. The loan limit of $10,000 which had formerly been imposed upon the Federal Land Banks was increased to $25,000.

"A measure of the utmost importance to farmers in those parts of the country where irrigation is the very basis of agricultural life is the act authorizing formation of irrigation districts, whereby the water using settlers are brought together in association to conduct their relations with the federal government.

Further encouragement was extended to the irrigation farmers by amending the farm loan act to provide terms on which the Land Bank could make loans to farmers on the irrigation projects, whose conditions and necessities require special treatment. Yet another provision in behalf of this same community is made by the new law which authorizes extending the time on payments due from irrigation farmers to the government.

"But this is not all I have reserved until the last what we may well appraise the crowning achievement of the entire list. I refer to the code of agricultural credit legislation known as the agricultural act of 1923, which became a law in the closing days of the last congress. It has not been possible yet to perfect machinery for administering the act but I do not hesitate to express confidence that this scheme of agricultural credits, taken in connection with the other enactments I have disclosed furnishes the basis for the most enlightened modern, sound and efficient scheme of agricultural finance that has been set up in any country and will enable the farmer in no distant future to free himself from obstacles which have made it difficult heretofore to conduct operations upon a sound, business like basis."

hear from President Harding what the national administration thinks about the agricultural problem. The president and Mrs. Harding received a warm personal greeting.

They reached Hutchinson greatly refreshed by a night's rest after their strenuous Kansas City day. The sun was not so hot, there was a strong breeze, and air was not so oppressive a sit was earlier. Mr. Harding's sunburn was not hurting him, and he had lost the drawn, weary look of yesterday. Mrs. Harding wore a light, summery dress and blue hat and carried a small fan which she waved at the crowd.

Addressing the school children, Mr. Harding said: "It is not enough in this country to have citizenship. We must have better citizenship, and that is what develops you."

The presidential party was immediately on a busy program on arrival. A trip to the wheat fields now ready for harvest and a bit of "dirt farming" by President Harding and Governor Davis of Kansas preceded the day's main event—the speech on agriculture at the Kansas state fair grounds at 2 p. m.

RUM RIVER DAM PLANNED

Bids Are Asked by State Game and Fish Commission for Construction

INTERESTING FACTS RELATING

Logging Companies of 30 Years Ago Drove Logs Down the Rum River

Bids have been advertised by the State Game and Fish Commission, for the construction of a dam on Rum River where it leaves Mille Lacs lake, which brings up some rather interesting facts that will be remembered by many of the old timers.

Logging companies of thirty years or more ago, drove logs through the outlet of Mille Lacs lake and down the Rum river. At that time the lake is said to have been considerably deeper than it now is, but the action of the logs as they were driven into the river dredged out the outlet, thus lowering the water level, and making Mille Lacs one of the most shallow lakes of its size in the country.

Many promises were made by the lumbering companies that they would repair the damage done and restore the old water level, but in the passing years many of these firms have gone out of existence and others have removed their scenes of operations to locations outside of the state, with the passing of the lumber industry in this section, but in the meantime these living near the lake contend that the water level has been steadily becoming lower.

The matter was brought up at the last session of the Minnesota legislature, and a bill was passed, appropriating funds for the building of a dam across the outlet which is designed to give the lake an even greater level than it has ever had in the past.

Much credit is due Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, representatives P. J. Long and E. P. Scallon, representatives from Crow Wing County and similar officials from Mille Lacs and Aitkin counties, for their untiring efforts in supporting this bill in the legislature.

The dam in question will be approximately seventy-two feet long, constructed of crosscut timber, with a fishway and a roadway for boats. With this dam it will be possible to maintain a water level on the lake about two feet higher than it has been in years past, and at the same time will control the water emptying into Rum river, which in turn flows into the Mississippi, thus assisting in the elimination of the danger of spring floods.

The scenic highway follows the shore-line of the lake for more than twenty miles, and the appearance of the shore will be greatly improved by the higher water.

The bids for the construction of this dam will be opened at the office of the State Game and Fish Commission on July 6th, and work is to be started on the structure immediately after that, with a view of having the work completed this season.

Louis Knudsen of Brainerd will be the engineer in charge of the construction.

NO TENTS BLOWN DOWN AT CAMP

Reports of Over Charging and Two Price System Complaint Made by Tourists

Very little inconvenience was experienced by tourists camping at the Brainerd camp site in Friday night's storm. No tents were blown down by the wind. Bedding in several instances was rainsoaked. The canopy topped tables have stood the recent storms, without damage in any case.

The park board has received a number of complaints the past week of local merchants overcharging tourists who are doing considerable trading in the city. It is charged that some of Brainerd's business men are maintaining two selling prices, one, their regular price to local patrons, the other, a higher price, for tourists.

It is pointed out that this will give the Brainerd merchants a bad name among tourists, with the result that this city will suffer, the travelers doing their trading elsewhere. There is also the danger of tourists detouring and leaving Brainerd out of their itinerary.

Visitors at the tourist park on Friday, as shown by the register, were:

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Robertson, John M. Robertson, Mrs. Margaret Burns, Mason City.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Zack, Mason City, Iowa.

The Finest Line in English Poetry.

An English critic thinks that the finest line in English poetry is from Wordsworth's "Tintern Abbey": "Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns." Tennyson once said that this was "almost the grandest in the English language, giving the sense of the abiding in the transient."

RUM RIVER DAM PLANNED

Bids Are Asked by State Game and Fish Commission for Construction

INTERESTING FACTS RELATING

Logging Companies of 30 Years Ago Drove Logs Down the Rum River

Bids have been advertised by the State Game and Fish Commission, for the construction of a dam on Rum River where it leaves Mille Lacs lake, which brings up some rather interesting facts that will be remembered by many of the old timers.

Logging companies of thirty years or more ago, drove logs through the outlet of Mille Lacs lake and down the Rum river. At that time the lake is said to have been considerably deeper than it now is, but the action of the logs as they were driven into the river dredged out the outlet, thus lowering the water level, and making Mille Lacs one of the most shallow lakes of its size in the country.

Many promises were made by the lumbering companies that they would repair the damage done and restore the old water level, but in the passing years many of these firms have gone out of existence and others have removed their scenes of operations to locations outside of the state, with the passing of the lumber industry in this section, but in the meantime those living near the lake contend that the water level has been steadily becoming lower.

The matter was brought up at the last session of the Minnesota legislature, and a bill was passed, appropriating funds for the building of a dam across the outlet which is designed to give the lake an even greater level than it has ever had in the past.

Much credit is due Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, representatives P. J. Long and E. P. Scallon, representatives from Crow Wing County and similar officials from Mille Lacs and Aitkin counties, for their untiring efforts in supporting this bill in the legislature.

The dam in question will be approximately seventy-two feet long, constructed of crosscut timber, with a fishway and a roadway for boats. With this dam it will be possible to maintain a water level on the lake about two feet higher than it has been in years past, and at the same time will control the water emptying into Rum river, which in turn flows into the Mississippi, thus assisting in the elimination of the danger of spring floods.

The Scenic highway follows the shore-line of the lake for more than twenty miles, and the appearance of the shore will be greatly improved by the higher water.

The bids for the construction of this dam will be opened at the office of the State Game and Fish Commission on July 6th, and work is to be started on the structure immediately after that, with a view of having the work completed this season.

Louis Knudsen of Brainerd will be the engineer in charge of the construction.

ZEV, 1923 CHAMPION, OWES IT TO SANDE

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Sports Editor

New York, June 23.—Zev, the new champion three-year-old of the turf, is credited in racing circles as being sired by Fate and his dam Good Luck. Running next to last in the Preakness stakes, his trainer had about decided to consign him to the ash-can of misfit race horses, according to the story around the tracks. He had been entered in the Kentucky Derby, but after his poor Preakness showing it was considered futile to ship him all the way down to Kentucky to take another beating.

Earl Sande, the Rancocas stable star jockey, had a hunch. He believed Zev's poor showing in the Preakness was caused by a kick he received in the leg while the horses were lining up at the post. He thought Zev could win the Derby. He went personally to Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate owner of the stables and, according to his story, pleaded that he be permitted to take the horse to Louisville. Sinclair agreed, more to please Sande than for any other reason.

Sande took him down and he had only one workout at the Derby distance on the Churchill Downs track. But with a brilliant speed and courage shown only by those real thoroughbred racers, Sande got the little brown colt—son of The Finn—under the wire a winner.

One week later he won the Withers Stakes at Belmont. Even then it did not dawn on the racing students that a new champion had been born among the three-year-olds. They looked upon Zev as a sprinter. Then came the final test in the mile and three furlongs of the Belmont Stakes.

Zev sprinted into the lead, sprinted for a mile and then had a courageous sprint left for the stretch. He won by three lengths.

In every race this year, save one, Zev has proven he was best. He is both a sprinter and a distance horse. He has the stamina and the power to carry his sprints to a length that kills off opposition. In five races this year he brought Sinclair $117,800 in purses. He won $24,465 last year, which brings his total winnings to $142,265.

Zev is a great race horse and seems destined to reach the pinnacle.

Women Help in Making Baseball Greatest of Games, Says Johnson

Chicago, June 23.—Women fans are making the present season one of the greatest in American league attendance records, President Ban Johnson asserted yesterday. The first six weeks of play this year attracted 237,000 more than the same period in 1922, despite the cold and disagreeable weather.

"The frequent attendance of women has added refinement to baseball," he said.

"The game no longer appeals to the rough and tumble element, but to a class of sport loving people, years ago the few women who did watch games were there out of curiosity. Today, the many women in the stands are there because they love the sport.

"They no longer ask silly questions. They know the strategy of the game and recognize skillful players."

Johnson said that "ladies' day" had drawn greater crowds to the parks this season than any other day of the week in past years.

Richard Dix, Barbara La Marr, Eleanor Boardman and Frank Mayo in "Souls for Sale" A Goldwyn Picture

To many people, after years of world wandering, Hollywood is the end of the trail. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being the many interesting persons who live there.

For along its streets, at some time or another, pass the famous travelers of the world. Woven into the history of the town, from its very beginning, there has always been something picturesque. Long before the days of '49 it was a revel ground for Spanish lovers and maidens who have long since vanished to the land of invisible places. For in Hollywood, under the moon, were held plays and picnics by the now forgotten but warm-hearted lovers of life.

The early settlers, or those who could afford it, drove about the quiet streets on Sunday afternoons and looked neither to the right nor to the left, but always straight ahead as was becoming men and women of vision who had founded a city. And over the streets which they once drove, an ex-cowboy, attired in rainbow clothes, now spins in a twenty thousand dollar automobile. He, too, looks straight ahead, and possibly dreams of the day when he thought a five dollar wage was the pinnacle of wealth. You watch him for a moment as he stops and picks up a battered prizefighter, who had sipped at fame before the cup was broken. They roll down the streets together—brothers under their skins. For being broadminded men, they are not class conscious.

At another time, you will see an Irishman, as good-looking as the pictures of Lord Byron. You will note the great forehead and the black silver touched hair that rolls back from it. Some one near you may say, "Yep, he was a taxi driver once, and now he's one of the three greatest directors in the world."

"What's his name?" you may gasp. And the nonchalant reply will come tersely, "Why, gosh, I thought everybody knew him—Marshall Neilan."

And again, you may see a man, in a hurry always, who carries a cane and walks with easy grace. It is quite apt to be Rupert Hughes, the first man to catch the pulsating life of Hollywood and make it move on a film so that a world might see and understand.

It was Rupert Hughes whose keen eyes beheld the sacrifices made by picture players with ideals. It was the heroine in his novel, "Souls for Sale," which has now been screened under the direction of Mr. Hughes, who wanted to "sell her soul" for a high ideal, at the Park tonight and Sunday. For, as he so well says, she Remember Steddon, "Would yearn upward toward the sun and spread the incense of her soul as far as the wings of the world would carry it. And when she died she would leave her name and her face in immortal pictures of deathless motion."

Jack Holt Scores Triumph

"Making a Man," a Paramount picture, scored a triumph at the Lyceum theatre last night. Jack Holt is in the stellar role with Eva Novak playing the leading feminine part. In the cast are J. P. Lockney, Bert Woodruff, Frank Nelson, and Robert Dudley.

The work of Mr. Holt as Horace Winsby is admirable. Eva Novak as the heroine effects his regeneration when she encounters him in the city where he is penniless and alone. Joseph Henabry has succeeded admirably in his production of this story. If you have not read the story you had better see the picture which is most satisfying and is showing for the last time tonight.

"MONTE CRISTO" WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

It is generally conceded that the motion picture has not reached, to any degree of permanency, quite a number of persons in America. Just why it has not is more or less of a mystery. Those few which the screen has not reached are numbered among the older folks who still doubt that motion pictures can portray a story in an interesting manner.

However, these doubting Thomases will have a new joy in witnessing the remarkable drama adapted from the famous story, "Monte Cristo," written by the immortal Alexandre Dumas. It is to have its local premiere at the Lyceum Sunday. It was produced by William Fox under the direction of Emmett J. Flynn.

Running next to last in the Preakness stakes, his trainer had about decided to consign him to the ash-can of misfit race horses, according to the story around the tracks. He had been entered in the Kentucky Derby, but after his poor Preakness showing it was considered futile to ship him all the way down to Kentucky to take another beating.

Earl Sande, the Rancocas stable star jockey, had a hunch. He believed Zev's poor showing in the Preakness was caused by a kick he received in the leg while the horses were lining up at the post. He thought Zev could win the Derby. He went personally to Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate owner of the stables and, according to his story, pleaded that he be permitted to take the horse to Louisville. Sinclair agreed, more to please Sande than for any other reason.

Sande took him down and he had only one workout at the Derby distance on the Churchill Downs track. But with a brilliant speed and courage shown only by those real thoroughbred racers, Sande got the little brown colt—son of The Finn—under the wire a winner.

One week later he won the Withers Stakes at Belmont. Even then it did not dawn on the racing students that a new champion had been born among the three-year-olds. They looked upon Zev as a sprinter. Then came the final test in the mile and three furlongs of the Belmont Stakes.

Zev sprinted into the lead, sprinted for a mile and then had a courageous sprint left for the stretch. He won by three lengths.

In every race this year, save one, Zev has proven he was best. He is both a sprinter and a distance horse. He has the stamina and the power to carry his sprints to a length that kills off opposition. In five races this year he brought Sinclair $117,800 in purses. He won $24,465 last year, which brings his total winnings to $142,265.

Zev is a great race horse and seems destined to reach the pinnacle.

Women Help in Making Baseball Greatest of Games, Says Johnson

Chicago, June 23.—Women fans are making the present season one of the greatest in American league attendance records, President Ben Johnson asserted yesterday. The first six weeks of play this year attracted 237,000 more than the same period in 1922, despite the cold and disagreeable weather.

"The frequent attendance of women has added refinement to baseball," he said.

"The game no longer appeals to the rough and tumble element, but to a class of sport loving people, years ago the few women who did watch games were there out of curiosity. Today, the many women in the stands are there because they love the sport.

"They no longer ask silly questions. They know the strategy of the game and recognize skillful players."

Johnson said that "ladies' day" had drawn greater crowds to the parks this season than any other day of the week in past years.

FATE OF ST. CLOUD NINE

TO BE DECIDED SUNDAY

St. Cloud, June 23.—On the attendance at the baseball game to be played here Sunday will hang the fate of the ball club. If it is good, there will be a ball club the rest of the year. If it numbers less than 1,500 St. Cloud's ball team soon will be a thing of the past.

Jack Holt Scores Triumph

"Making a Man," a Paramount pictureization of a story by Peter B. Kyne scored an artistic triumph at the Lyceum theatre last night. Jack Holt is in the stellar role with Eva Novak playing the leading feminine part. In the cast are J. P. Lockney, Bert Woodruff, Frank Nelson, and Robert Dudley.

The work of Mr. Holt as Horace Winsby is admirable. Eva Novak as the heroine effects his regeneration when she encounters him in the city where he is penniless and alone. Joseph Henabery has succeeded admirably in his production of this story. If you have not read the story you had better see the picture which is most satisfying and is showing for the last time tonight.

Rupert Hughes' "SOULS FOR SALE"
A Goldwyn Picture

To many people, after years of world wandering, Hollywood is the end of the trail. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being the many interesting persons who live there.

For along its streets, at some time or another, pass the famous travelers of the world. Woven into the history of the town, from its very beginning, there has always been something picturesque. Long before the days of '49 it was a revel ground for Spanish jovers and maidens who have long since vanished to the land of invisible places. For in Hollywood, under the moon, were held plays and picnics by the now forgotten but warm-hearted lovers of life.

The early settlers, or those who could afford it, drove about the quiet streets on Sunday afternoons and looked neither to the right nor to the left, but always straight ahead as was becoming men and women of vision who had founded a city. And over the streets which they once drove, an ex-cowboy, attired in rainbow clothes, now spins in a twenty thousand dollar automobile. He, too, looks straight ahead, and possibly dreams of the day when he thought a five dollar wage was the pinnacle of wealth. You watch him for a moment as he stops and picks up a battered prizefighter, who had sipped at fame before the cup was broken. They roll down the streets together—brothers under their skins. For being broadminded men, they are not class conscious.

At another time, you will see an Irishman, as good-looking as the pictures of Lord Byron. You will note the great forehead and the black silver touched hair that rolls back from it. Some one near you may say, "Yep, he was a taxi driver once, and now he's one of the three greatest directors in the world." "What's his name?" you may gasp. And the nonchalant reply will come tersely, "Why, gosh, I thought everybody knew him—Marshall Nellan."

And again, you may see a man, in a hurry always, who carries a cane and walks with easy grace. It is quite apt to be Rupert Hughes, the first man to catch the pulsating life of Hollywood and make it move on a film so that a world might see and understand.

It was Rupert Hughes whose keen eyes beheld the sacrifices made by picture players with ideals. It was the heroine in his novel, "Souls for Sale," which has now been screened under the direction of Mr. Hughes, who wanted to "sell her soul" for a high ideal, at the Park tonight and Sunday. For, as he so well says, she Remember Steddon, "Would yearn upward toward the sun and spread the incense of her soul as far as the winds of the world would carry it. And when she died she would leave her name and her face in immortal pictures of deathless motion."

"MONTE CRISTO" WILLIAM FOX SPECIAL PRODUCTION

It is generally conceded that the motion picture has not reached, to any degree of permanency, quite a number of persons in America. Just why it has not is more or less of a mystery. Those few which the screen has not reached are numbered among the older folks who still doubt that motion pictures can portray a story in an interesting manner.

However, these doubting Thomases will have a new joy in witnessing the remarkable drama adapted from the famous story, "Monte Cristo," written by the immortal Alexandre Dumas. It is to have its local premiere at the Lyceum Sunday. It was produced by William Fox under the direction of Emmett J. Flynn.
